The Davis Botanical Society Presents

Superblooms of Rainfall Past: Share Your Favorite California Superbloom Pictures!

Tuesday, December 21, 2021
Hosted on Zoom; link will be emailed ahead of the meeting
Meeting opens 6:45 pm; group presentation 7:00-8:00 pm

All individual native plants are magnificent in their intricacy and beauty, but after abundant winter rains whole landscapes can explode in color. Some of the world’s most spectacular Superblooms happen in California, reason enough for us to celebrate and share!

This group presentation is conceived as a “dispersed format” field trip to our favorite Superblooms. To participate in the presentation, email some images (6 maximum) and captions or Powerpoint slides to Steve Schoenig at the Davis Botanical Society (sschoenig@ucdavis.edu) by December 17.

California poppies (Escholzia californica)
Antelope Valley California Poppy Reserve SNR