

The Davis Botanical Society Presents

How I Spent my Field Season

(with pizza)

Davis Botanical Society Student Grant Recipients Present their Field Research

Thursday November 15th 2018, 6:00-7:00 p.m (pizza at 5:45).

1022 Life Sciences Addition

(corner of Hutchison and Kleiber Hall Drives)

University of California, Davis

Micah Freedman

(PhD Degree, Population Biology Graduate Group)

Scents and sense abilities: deciphering the role of floral scent in reproductive isolation in neotropical Gongora orchids

Julia Michaels

(PhD Degree, Ecology Graduate Group)

Grazing effects on vernal pool diversity across a heterogenous landscape

Javier Jauregui Lazo

(Masters Degree, Hort & Agronomy Graduate Group)

Phylogeny and biogeography of biddy-biddy and relatives
(Acaena, Rosaceae)

To encourage students and others to attend these wonderful talks, the Davis Botanical Society will be providing pizza before and during the talks. Stay and enjoy good company and our fine refreshments after the talk. For those of you coming from off-campus, parking at UC Davis is available for $9.00 in the parking garage along Hutchison Drive. For more information, please call Teri Barry or Ellen Dean at the UC Davis Center for Plant Diversity: 530 752 1091.

